VETOES DEFENDED BY TAFT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 21.—One of the most important speeches of President Taft's swing around the country was on the schedule here to-day and 20,000 people, eagerly awaiting it, greeted him when his special car drew into the railroad station.

The speech was a defense of the woolen and cotton tariff and free list vetoes and the atmosphere was surcharged with politics. The majority of the voters to-day appeared anxious to give the President a hearing, although the vetoes created an unfavorable impression here.

The program to-day was a busy one and beside his visit to Grand Rapids the President was slated to visit Mattheh Batts Creek and Kalamazoo.

Mr. Taft reached this city at 6:30 a. m. He remained on the train until 8 o'clock and then had breakfast in the Pullman Country Club. Later in the morning he visited the Michigan Soldiers' Home, and at 11 o'clock was due at Campau place where his eagerly awaited tariff speech was scheduled for delivery.

The President expressed himself this morning as immensely satisfied with his trip as far as it has gone. He is greatly encouraged by the cordiality of the Michigan crowds.

In his speech defending his vetoes the President said:

Defence of His Vetoes.

My Fellow Citizens: I am going to tell you, in as simple a way as I can, why I vetoed the three tariff bills which Congress submitted to me for consideration at the close of this extra session. I called the session to secure the enactment into law of the Canadian reciprocity treaty. This was done on July 26, when I signed the wool bill, the free-list bill, and the cotton bill, were presented to me for signature, and I returned them, without my approval, and explained my reasons for so doing in a special message on each bill.

Although many of the Democrats had assisted in the support of the woolen and tariff board bill and had advocated such a measure of securing accurate information in respect of the probable operation of the proposed law, the fact that the majority chose to make a record for political purposes by passing those tariff bills, as well as the free-list bill, and the cotton bill. They gave no public pledge that if they did so either of those bills, and they presented no satisfactory information to me which led the effect of any of them upon the industries involved would be increased. Their investigations may have been sufficient to satisfy the members of the tariff committee that who believes in any reduction, however great, of existing duties, but to me, pledged as I am to maintain a tariff high enough to enable existing industries to live, the case is different.

The Wool Bill.

The wool bill proposed a reduction duty of 20 per cent. upon raw wool instead of 11 cents a pound, a reduction of considerably more than 50 per cent. on the present duty, and an average duty of 50 per cent. on woolen cloth, and manufactures. This was avowedly a tariff for revenue and was not approved by the leaders of any branch of the industries. It passed the House and went to the Senate, where an insurgent Republican Senator upon the committee to which the duty on wool of the first class was fixed at 40 per cent., and of the second class, or carpet wools, at 10 per cent., and the average percentage on the woolen manufactures was made 60 per cent. ad valorem. It was claimed by its author to be a protection bill. It was never submitted to a committee, no evidence was ever taken in regard to it, and it was received from the Independent investigation of a single Senator.

A majority of the Insurgents and the Democrats in the Senate compromised on a bill which made the tax on raw wool, first class, 25 per cent.; second class, 20 per cent., and the average duty on woolens 55 per cent. The bill, against the vote of twenty-all of the regular Republicans and some Insurgent Republicans, passed the Senate and was sent to conference, where a bill was agreed upon in which the duty was 29 per cent. on raw wool, and an average of 49 per cent. on woolens. This bill had the effect of raising the duty on carpet wools, as fixed in the Senate, 10 per cent., and as fixed in the House, 5 per cent. Here was the first case presented to me. There was nothing to show to me either the House or Senate from which I could draw any information as to the effect of this bill upon the wool and woolen industry of this country. I stated that the history of its making shows no principle over or duty on wool, and a compromise between two opposing principles for the purpose of passing the bill, without any indication as to its effect on the industry to which it applies.

This bill reduced the duty on woolens to an average of 49 per cent. with a duty on the raw material wool of 29 per cent.

COERCING CANADIAN VOTERS

QUEBEC, Sept. 21.—Reports from all over Canada indicate that an immense vote has been cast to-day on the reciprocity issue, and that desperate measures have been resorted to by the corporate interests against the agreement.

At London, Ont., thousands of workmen were marshalled into a solid phalanx at noon and marched to the polls, where they were ordered to vote against reciprocity.

In many manufacturing centres inflammation of workmen was openly practised.

Great sums of money were spent in getting voters to the polls, and an enormous sum has been wagered on the result.

More than a score of arrests of political workers were made at Winnipeg.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the central figure in the reciprocity fight, cast his ballot here, voting at 10 o'clock. Sir Wilfrid looked pleased over the long time of waiting to vote, remarking that it was a good sign.

Intense Feeling at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—A spirit of intense bitterness cropped out here to-day between the rival factions in the parliamentary election which shall decide the fate of reciprocity in Canada, but this had been expected owing to the marked hostility of the opposing forces.

Ideal weather prevailed and when the polls opened at 9 o'clock political organizers had mustered their armies of electors at all of the voting places. Banners were carried through the streets by Liberal and Conservative supporters. The rural districts of Quebec about Montreal reported a heavy early vote. A record-breaking early vote was polled in this city. Manufactories, stores and business houses gave their employes half holidays to enable them to vote and work at the polls.

Manufacturers in Hull to-day served notice upon their employes that if they voted they would be held responsible for the result. The election officials were also ordered to vote against the Liberals or to lose their positions.

Robert L. Borden, leader of the Conservatives, issued a statement to-day declaring that judging from the reports he is receiving a record Liberal vote will show the government defeated.

Premier Sifton's $1,000 that the Liberal party would be returned to power was covered by Chicago money bets late. An offer to bet $5,000 to $4,000 that the Liberals would be returned to power was made here this afternoon.

Employes Are Coerced.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 21.—The "Big Stick" was unpleased to-day. Manufacturing interests in London, which are opposed to reciprocal trade relations with the United States, held a conference with their employes to-day to compel them to vote for Conservative parliamentary candidates and against reciprocity. Employes of more than 200 mechanics sent out an ultimatum which was posted in the factories, that any man found working for or voting for reciprocity would be discharged.

Reports circulated among the artisans stated that, if reciprocity won, war would be declared and United States troops would end annex Canada. Laborers have been promised a high pitch by those scaremongering announcements.

The fortified artificial battle western Ontario has ever known was in progress to-day. Voters to-day declared that they had a big anti-reciprocity boodle fund was ready to debauch the election. The Conservatives used a caravan of automobiles to carry voters to the polls. Many of the polls had been open only an hour a voters five hours in order to be polled and been cast. The Conservatives were then chasing 1,000 majority in London.

RUSSIA TO ASK ASIA MINOR RIGHTS

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 21.—One of the conditions of the czar informed the French ambassador to-day that if the signatories to the Algeciras convention should attempt to encroach upon the sovereignty of Morocco Russia will claim recognition of her moral and economic right in Asia Minor.

HELD FOR REFUSING FARE ON A PULLMAN

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21.—Albert J. Mier of St. Louis, general superintendent of the National Lead Company, was arrested here to-day for refusing to pay his fare on a Pullman train.

CARNEGIE URGES RECIPROCITY AS PATHWAY TO PEACE

A reciprocity treaty between the two English speaking nations on the North American continent is evidence of a true neighborly race feeling on both sides it will result in good for both.

As for annexation, there is no basis for the belief that the United States will ever annex Canada. In my meetings throughout Canada, I never met a Canadian in favor of this. On the other hand, when I suggested that perhaps Canada might be destined to play the part of Scotland and annex the United States, as Scotland did England through her King, there came always loud shouts of approval from the company. I was addressing."

"L" BILL SIGNED IN DUPLICATE

Mayor Fitzgerald signed the Elevated West End merger bill at Rochester, N. Y., at 8:40 a. m. to-day and Acting Mayor Walter L. Collins signed a duplicate copy at City Hall at 10:15 o'clock. This duplicate was immediately certified by the city clerk and sent to the State House. The act had to be signed before noon to-day to become operative.

Thus the merger act closed its long and stormy career with a rousing noise, and that part of the subway transit program is settled. When Acting Mayor Collins put his name on the document he severed, critics and attaches of the Mayor's office, for neither to meet Mayor Fitzgerald with the bill. He said that he had always intended to sign it if the Mayor did not appear on Friday.

Assistant Secretary Edward A. Moore, who left Boston late yesterday, with copy of the bill, just in time to get the Mayor's signature in case the Acting Mayor failed to sign, met Mr. Fitzgerald on the train to-day. He had planned to see him at Buffalo, but received a telegram from Boston City Hall instructing him to meet his train at Rochester as he would be sure to meet the Mayor there. A dispatch was also sent to the Mayor telling him of the change in plans.

Mayor Returns To-day.

Assistant Secretary Moore reached Rochester at 6:30 a. m. to-day, and the Mayor arrived from Chicago four hours later. As soon they boarded a train for Boston. An automobile will meet the Mayor at the South Station and he will rush him to the State House so that the bill, with his signature, may be filed before midnight in the Secretary of State office is still open.

In the meantime, however, Acting Mayor Collins asked Mayor's Secretary William A. Leahey to come to Rochester hours later. After reaching the Mayor's office at 10 o'clock this morning, he was called in Private Secretary Fitch, and the document was properly signed and certified. Then Mr. Collins made this statement to the reporters.

Explanation by Collins.

"Today I have approved the vote of the City Council accepting the tunnel legislation. No word or act of mine at any time has warranted the inference of representation that I would not approve; my vote in the Council on Monday expressed my belief that the legislation should be accepted.

"I refrained from acting on the matter until today because earlier action by me would have been open to question legally on the ground that the matter 'admitted of delay,' for the Mayor planned, according to the information given to me, to return in time to approve the vote of the Council and so long as the time permitted the Mayor to return and to act I did not possess the power to act for the city. Today the Mayor is so distant from Boston that he cannot return and act. Consequently I act.

"Whether or not the Mayor has power to act for the city while 'absent' might be the subject of litigation and delay in the building of the tunnels. My action has been taken cautiously and reasonably so as to be free from all question to make sure of the tunnels being built the citizens of Boston are entitled and of which there is great need."

15 IRISH PLAYERS ARE HERE

William Butler Yeats, the famous Irish poet, playwright and public advocate for the present Gaelic revival, arrived on the White Star liner Zealand to-day, with Lennox Robinson, the playwright-manager, and the members of the Irish National Theatre Company of Dublin, who are to open the Plymouth Theatre Monday night.

Lady Gregory, the third playwright whose one-act comedy, "Hyacinth Halvey," is to form part of the opening night program, did not arrive with the party, as expected. She was delayed on the other side. She will come next week via New York.

There are fifteen people in the Irish players company, making seventeen in all to accompany the party.

The players were fairly bubbling with delight at coming on this American tour. They are most anxious to please American audiences. They enjoyed the trip over here and made one quantity of friends with fellow saloon passengers. Last Monday night they gave an entertainment in the saloon for the benefit of the seamen's fund. They put on songs and recitations, also a one-act comedy: "The Workhouse Ward," by Lady Gregory. They made a big hit with their steamship audience.

Yeats Lectured at Harvard.

When the waterfront reporters boarded the Zealand they quickly picked out the poet-playwright-actor standing on the deck. And in the group they picked out Yeats, the leading Irish poet, without any difficulty.

Tall and of dark complexion, with his black hair slightly streaked with gray, and with pince-nez, Mr. Yeats was a notable figure.

"I am particularly delighted," he said earnestly, "at this opportunity to come to America. I was here seven years ago, and at that time I delivered a lecture at Harvard University. But, owing to the pressure of my engagements on tour, I was not able to visit Boston during a small part of one day. I saw, therefore, very little of Boston. I have heard more and more of Boston in the intervening time, and I am much desirous to see the city under favorable circumstances. I count that as one of the outstanding opportunities of my present visit."

The poet was asked if the Irish players could present here any new play.

"Do you think a new play would be acceptable in Boston?" he asked.

He was told that productions were always said to see anything new.

"Well, maybe a new play will be put on, one absolutely new. But that will remain to be seen."

Will Interpret Yeats's Work.

The group of Irish players who are to interpret the writing of Yeats, of Lady Gregory and of Lennox Robinson, and other playwrights for Bostonians, is composed of Miss Sara Allgood, J. M. Kerrigan, Miss Kathleen Drago, J. M. Kerrigan, Miss Eithne Magan, Miss Cathleen Nesbitt, Miss Ellson Lennox, Fred O'Donovan, J. Wheelock Arthur Sinclair, J. Weedon, A. Wright and Miss M. Nunbhlaich.

Miss Nunbhlaich is all Irish and her last name, so run off by other members of the company, is as much as though it were spelled "Sadie."

Miss Allgood acted as spokeswoman for the company. She talked readily with reporters, were assured that the company has no leading woman in the ordinary sense of the term. If, it suits the requirements of any particular production better, Sara Allgood might play a minor role, with some other woman in the company taking the part.

Sara Allgood has black hair and the deepest black eyes. Her fair complexion contrasts with these beautifully and she has the most delicious brogue. She is very elegant little brogue, to be sure, but still a brogue—that you ever heard. It was good to listen to her as she talked. She is Irish!

Glad to Be in America.

"We are all alive with excitement at this opportunity to play in America. It seems like the fulfillment of our highest ambitions. We are just fresh from a tour of England, where we had no end of success—wherein we played London, Manchester and the other leading cities. Our efforts were crowned with success. But we look on this trip as a ready foreign tour."

With this suitable beginning, Sara Allgood continued:

"We are not only delighted with our opportunity to give our performances before American audiences, but we are particularly glad that we are to open in Boston. We have heard so much of Boston that we seem to know the people here already. We feel that we will start with friendly audiences."

SUNDAY'S COMIC SECTION WONDER

Ach! Himmel!

Vat a Suppenstance! Die Katzenjammer Kids got all the goats.

Yep, the Katzies got Der Captain's goat again, which is nothing new, also the goats of the Schoolmaster and the Crew. And, to make matters worse, they got the treasure goats—real live trained goats which Treasure Box had educated—but—that's telling. The Comic Section of the next Sunday AMERICAN will put it all before you in gay colors and in such merry designs that you will laugh whether you feel like it or not.

The Comic Section of the next Sunday AMERICAN is another full order of "boisterous risibilitiousness", emoning hearfun.

And "Little Jimmy." It was a sad, sad war, 'deed is was.

Let it go at that.

It can't be told in print. Get next Sunday AMERICAN and take a peek for yourself.

JEWISH REFUGEES ARRIVE PENNILESS

About 150 Jewish refugees arrived here from Liverpool on the White Star liner Zealand to-day, and about fifty of them have been detained by immigration authorities because they are practically without money. Jewish charitable organizations or relatives are expected to come to their relief. These Jews are from Russian Poland. Most of them fled with scanty preparations, fearing massacres. When one Jew immigrant was told of the assassination of Premier Stolypin he said in terror: "God help the poor Jews in Russia!"

30,000 LABORERS AT MADRID STRIKE

MADRID, Sept. 21.—Thirty thousand employes of the building trades in Madrid were ordered to strike to-day. The military holds the capital in a close grip.

MRS. MITCHELL TAKES STAND

Mrs. Eva Louise Mitchell of Medford, whose double divorce suit with her husband, Edward W. Mitchell, is being heard before Judge Fessenden at East Cambridge, took the stand to-day as best witness in her own behalf.

She went into detail concerning his arguments with her husband over his alleged attentions to Mrs. Mattie Fairbanks of Hull, whom Mrs. Mitchell has named in her cross libel.

She said Mr. Mitchell told her he would go for the Fairbanks house as much as he liked, and that when she remonstrated, he swore at her and struck her on the side of the head.

One of the last witnesses to-day for Mr. Mitchell was the sixteen-yearold son Edward, the youngest of their three children.

The lad said his mother scratched his face "like a cat." He said that, in argument, his mother shed tears, "mad tears."

"I don't mean that. She was so ugly she cried," he added.

Together with the three children, Lawrence, Helen and Edward, ranged as usual with their father, and with Mrs. Mitchell alone with her counsel. Mrs. Marie Fairbanks of Hull, whom Mrs. Mitchell has named in her remedied cross libel, is not expected to testify. Mrs. Fairbanks would take the stand before the day was over.

Many Medford people were on hand to hear the case in this city. Mrs. Mitchell is clerk of committees for the Medford City Government, and has always unstintingly praised Mrs. Mitchell's work.

Mrs. Mitchell has been confined in the Corcoran Hospital, Washington, D. C., for treatment following a nervous breakdown, which followed the filing of the libel for divorce by her husband.

LEONARD'S PLEA LOST IN COURT

Judge Hardy, in the Superior Court to-day, denied the application of Representative Joseph Leonard of Ward 9 for an injunction against Mayor Fitzgerald and Superintendent of Public Buildings Mann J. Fish to restrain them from preventing him from using the Ward 9 wardroom for a political rally next Monday night, the evening before the primaries.

Judge Hardy said that the court had no power to interfere. He said that the city ordinances gave the superintendent of buildings the right to let anybody use the wardrooms as he saw fit, regardless of who applied first. He also said that the Mayor could revoke such permits at his own discretion.

Leonard Explains Case.

Leonard wanted the use of the wardroom—which is the old Franklin schoolhouse—for a meeting in behalf of Thomas M. Joyce, an anti-Fitzgerald candidate for the Senate in the Fourth Suffolk District. In explaining his case to Judge Hardy to-day, he said:

"On Aug. 13 I asked for the use of the wardroom at Mr. Fish's office, and had a sufficient number of signatures. I paid him a $4 deposit. I spent $94.50 for posters and flyers. Last week I saw Mr. Fish and asked him for the use of the wardroom on the evening before the night before the primaries. Mr. Fish said: 'Now, it's the same old thing. We had it last year. I can't grant that to you. My hands are tied.' I told him to see the Mayor about it.

"I told Mr. Fish that I had gone to the expense of advertising the meeting as he had given me a permit for it, and I did not see why he could not do so now. He gave me the same reply. I then proved not let Congressman Kelliher speak there. He told me to return in an hour and he would let me know.

Interviewed the Mayor.

"I saw him Monday of this week, with no satisfaction.

"I interviewed Mayor Fitzgerald last week, and found that Mr. Doyle was there. I asked him if I could have the room and he said, 'Certainly.'

"No, I can't let you have it. Your friends are my enemies. If I give it to you I'll have the dem on the other side coming down on me. If you are my friend that their way I wouldn't be stirring in the Mayor's choice to-day. I told him that he ought to let me have it, as I had a permit, and on the strength of it had spent money. He told me to return in an hour and he would let me know.

THIS IS THE FIRST DAY OF FALL, 1911

To-day is the Autumnal equi—

That isn't the way to put this off. Take a fresh start:

"The melancholy days are come,
The saddest of the year, etc., etc."

That's the regular union quotation to the first day of fall. It has been used for this time of year ever since Mr. Bryant wrote it.

As one started to remark, to-day is the Autumnal equinox. Astronomically speaking, to-day is the day when the sun enters the first point of Libra.

Speaking in the Fourth Suffolk District, this is the first day of Fall.

Speaking in Washington street, this is the first day of Fall.

FIND TRUE BILLS IN POSTOFFICE CASES

The Federal grand jury for the United States District Court reported to Judge Dodge to-day. It returned one secret indictment, fourteen "true bills" and four no bills. Charles Herbert Ellsworth, former postmaster at South Egremont, is indicted on a charge of making false entries in the record of cancellations. Hope R. Hazel is indicted on charges of altering and passing money orders. He is accused of passing them in Boston and other cities. Henry Rosenberg, also of New Bedford, is indicted on a charge of converting government money to his own use.

110 SURVEYORS QUIT GOVERNMENT WORK

One hundred and ten government surveyors who have been working in Boston harbor struck to-day because their salary checks are a week overdue. They claim that if Uncle Sam can't take pains to get their pay to them in time they can't afford to work for him. The men investigate marking and sounding Boston harbor and river waters. They are paid $60 a month in monthly checks. Checks for the first half of September haven't come yet.

RAND MAY LEAD "DRY'S" TICKET

Frank N. Rand, a Haverhill business man, is expected to be indorsed for Governor by the Prohibitionists of Massachusetts at their annual convention this afternoon in Chickering Hall, Tremont Temple. The convention was called to order at 10 by S. W. Bingham of Boston. The committee on permanent organization was announced as follows: Rev. Alfred A. Wright of Somerville, chairman; William O. Wylie of Beverly, William H. Merrill of Malden, Samuel B. Sampson of Boston, Henry M. Dean of Hyde Park, David Reid of Boston, Joseph Bartlett of Lynn, Charles A. Lester of Lowell, Edwin C. Lewis of Newton and John Holt of Worcester. After the organization was perfected, addresses by John A. Nichols of Boston was chosen chairman and Oscar A. McKenney of Boston secretary.

Rev. Ira Wm. Gregg, E. Stockwell, prohibition candidate for Governor of New York in 1908, declared that he believed that the people believe that the State of Maine is still in the Prohibition mire. He was interrupted by three cheers for Maine, the original home of prohibition.

Chairman Nichols paid a tribute to the memory of the late Governor Cleaves Cutler Chapman Cobb of Maine for the part they had taken in the cause.

A recess was then taken.

TAFT DEFENDS TARIFF VETOES

The Wilson bill, passed in 1894, had reduced the duty to 50 per cent. with no duty on the raw wool at all, a much more favorable arrangement to the manufacturers than in the present bill, and yet the years of the Wilson bill were years of disaster to the woolen manufacturers. It may be that other causes than the tariff contributed to the failure of woolen mills in the time of the Wilson bill, and it may well be that conditions in the woolen business have changed so that it does not need as much protection as then; but I had no adequate information, and had been furnished none, upon which I could say that the bill presented to me was in accord with the Republican platform of protection upon which I was elected and for which I am in honor bound to endeavor to secure an adequate measure.

Schedule K had been in force so long in its present aggregate and so high in many respects that I had not hesitated in times gone by to veto a bill or bills in which I have quoted above, was to be observed in the framing of a new bill and a bill for following it. If I had allowed the bill to become a law in the form then made in public opinion toward a better method of revising the tariff would have been entirely lost and the policy cast to the winds.

Farmers' Free List.

The free-list bill was called the farmers' free list," for the purpose of giving an impression that it was passed in compliance with the farmers for some sort of injury supposed to be done by the Canadian reciprocity treaty. This reason was frankly repudiated by the leader of the Democracy on the floor of the House of Representatives, and is certainly not true. There was nothing in the Canadian reciprocity bill that required any compensation to the farmers, for in a very short period after actual operation it will appear that they, as well as everybody else, have been improved in condition by our larger trade with Canada. But the bill was framed and came to me in a form calculated to mislead me to fix other duties. In the free list agricultural implements were declared to be free, and a great many were named. These same implements were named in the Payne bill, and were made free in that bill from any country which permitted our agricultural implements to enter it without duty. This opened to England the market of the United States for agricultural implements.

As a matter of fact, the price of agricultural implements in America is practically fixed by a report of the Bureau of Trade Relations of the State Department to the American farmers that to any farmers in the world. Hence in the one country that exports agricultural implements to any great extent, and so successful is the competition against her in this country of American agricultural implements that practically very few have come to from England. This first clause, therefore, of the free-list bill offers no boon to the farmers at all, although apparently drawn for the purpose of inducing them to think so.

HURD'S FIANCEE IS PROSTRATED

Facing the disinheritance of her fiancé and the publicity which his angry outburst into the court has given to her love affair, Miss Edna Beatrice Church, who is engaged to marry Malcolm Ford Hurd, son of Edward P. Hurd, the noted Ford Shoe Machinery vice-president, was prostrated at her home at No. 288 Mill street, Newtonville, to-day. A physician was called to attend her.

Miss Church's fiance, who had an office in the legal department of the United Shoe Machinery Company's plant, quit his work and did not appear to-day. After having announced that he intended to marry Miss Church whether his father liked it or not and whether he lost his interest in the Hurd millions or not, young Mr. Hurd—so it was reported before—refused any further statement.

Edward P. Hurd, the father, who is reported in an advertisement in the Beverly Times, announcing that the engagement was without his approval, that no settlements had been sent out contrary to his wish and that neither he nor Mrs. Hurd would attend the wedding, grew purple with rage when reporters asked him for further particulars at his office to-day. "Get out of here," he shouted, "or I'll have you all kicked out. How dare you ask about my family affairs?"

Then he vanished in an inner office and slammed the door.

Hurd senior had the Beverly advertisement put in at his expense, the newspapers to-day.

Hurd, the son, explained the quarrel in some detail. "The reason which my father has urged against my marriage," he said, "is that I am sick. I am willing to undergo a physical examination by a medical expert to prove the soundness of health."

The notice published by my father will put an end to interference with my plans. The wedding will take place October 25 in St. John's Episcopal Church in Newtonville, rector Auditorium. Dartmouth's freshman class this year breaks all records. It numbers 450. The sophomore rush is the annual event, which will take place to-night.

450 FRESHMEN AT DARTMOUTH

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 21.—The college year at Dartmouth began to-day with opening exercises at 9 o'clock, and President Nichols addressed the students in the Webster auditorium. Dartmouth's freshman class this year breaks all records. It numbers 450. The sophomore rush is the annual event, which will take place to-night.

MELVIN CASE IS GIVEN TO JURY

The case of Edward Lee Melvin, the former marine, charged with murder in the second degree in causing the death of John W. Carey in Charlestown on December 10, went to the jury in the Suffolk Criminal Court at 11 a. m. The trial lasted three days.

Judge Lawton's charge and the closing arguments by counsel were listened to attentively by Mrs. Margaret Carey, the widow who fought hard for a new trial, and Mrs. Melvin, the wife of the alleged murderer, and also by Miss Mary Ashton, a friend of Melvin.

Colonel William H. Bent, the prisoner's counsel, argued that the shooting was accidental and also that Melvin was in an abnormal state of mind at the time having been drinking heavily for several days previous.

MANY SUITORS FOR MRS. SUYDAM

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The pretty runaway bride, Mrs. Walter Lispenard Suydam, Jr., and her young "protector," Frederick Noble, yesterday refuted all stories to the effect that their romance was at an end by spending most of the afternoon together and then by going to the theatre and to supper in the evening.

Indeed, we haven't parted," explained the young woman to a reporter who interrupted her at a plumber's sale. "Does this look like it?"

Mrs. Suydam and Noble were sitting on a divan in the living room of the apartment in the Bristol building, in West Twelfth street, where Mrs. Suydam is making her home. She wore a tight fitting yellow silk gown, which displayed charmingly her slender beauty.

Both appeared very happy.

The "agreement" or "declaration of independence" which the young woman signed with the landlord—to the effect that she would not receive male callers in her apartment—appeared to have been disregarded.

Neither Worrying.

"And I want to say that I'd like to get hold of the man who started this scandal in a morning paper that I was through with Lochiel—that I had realized my folly, and was going to get back to my husband," she said. "I never said any such thing, and I will never give her up."

"But what's going to come of all this? Are you going to be married is there going to be a divorce action by Mr. Suydam, the deserted husband?" was asked.

"Everything will on all right after a while," said Noble. "Neither of us is doing any worrying."

A story was printed in some of the evening papers to the effect that Harry Noble, the "protector's" father, had received an attorney for the Suydam family had approached him and said the family would give the runaway bride $100,000 if she would consent to a divorce and then become the wife of Noble, thus putting an end to the scandal. Nothing was known in the couple.

They laughed over it and declared they hadn't heard of any such offer.

Offers of Marriage.

"The only offers we have had are these," said Mrs. Suydam, picking up a bunch of letters which had arrived in the morning mail. "They are offers of rendezvous engagements and of marriage. A lot of them, it seems, want to marry me, and quite a few girls would like to have Fred for a husband."

The "protector" almost blushed as his companion picked out some scented billet doux displayed it. This was signed "Ag ——," and ran something like this:

"You will soon tire of this Mrs. Suydam, and then you will be glad to come back to your own darling."

Noble declared vehemently he had no idea who the writer could be—that he never knew a girl named Agatha. Mrs. Suydam teased him by pretending to.

There were several offers of $500 a week for the pair to appear on the variety stage in playlets that would be written for them in case they consented.

Also there were countless letters from strangers, some telling the young people for their defiance of the conventions, others bitterly denouncing them.

As to our situation," said Mrs. Suydam, "there is absolutely nothing new. I have not heard a word from my husband or any representative of his family. I do not know whether he will bring divorce proceedings or not. Certainly I have not been served with any papers yet.

"Fred is taking his vacation—it is not as that he was discharged by his employers—and we intend to have as good a time as possible. We are going to start for the theatre now. Afterward we will have a little supper. Fred will escort me home, then he will go to his own residence in Brooklyn. We are following the programme very thoroughly."

RAILROAD MAN AIDS HIS YOUNG WIFE IN ELOPING

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Frank Thompson, wife of a railroad man of Fair Grounds, L. I., who left her husband and gone away with the son of a wealthy sewing machine manufacturer of Yonkers, N. Y. An unusual feature of this "elopement" is the declaration that the husband consented to his wife's departure with the manufacturer's son, and, in fact, he first want, agreed to give her a small sum of money monthly.

He said today he would not stand in the way of her getting a divorce if she desired one, but he would say nothing about instituting divorce proceedings himself.

Mrs. Thompson was Miss Vera A. Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Brooklyn. She is twenty-two years old, and has been married four years. The couple have no children.

Last Summer Mrs. Thompson spent a few weeks at Midland Beach, and there met the New York man, who is three years her senior.

Friday Three-Hour Sales

WE DO NOT AND NEVER HAVE used these sales as a means of working off damaged or otherwise unsalable goods. On the contrary, these sales represent good, straight, desirable merchandise, right from our regular stocks. Occasionally we include an odd lot or a remnant accumulation, but never unless they are desirable goods. Because they are low priced sales no one should get the impression that the Friday sales represent inferior goods. It is the price and not the quality that is low in this case. Scan these items closely.

ASTOR TO STUDY THE IRISH HERE

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Waldorf Astor, the self-expatriated American, who sailed on the Olympic, is returning to the United States for the first time in three years with the chief object of studying American politics and labor conditions. Astor brought the American dollar sloshing into the recent general elections. Now he wants a more intimate knowledge of what Irish Nationalists are doing in American precincts to vote the next campaign.

He said: "I have been trying to get back for several years, but politics here would not permit me. Now I am going to get straight up on American affairs, especially the attitude of Irish-Americans. I will remain some time in November, spending most of the time with relatives in New York.

"Let no one think the Unionist party is ready to quit because of a temporary check in the House of Lords. Our fight is only just begun."

Mrs. Astor, formerly Miss Langhorne of Virginia, who so ably assisted her husband in getting a parliamentary seat, remains on the Astor estate at Cliveden. She will guard his political interests while he is away.

Gee! Joe's a Lucky Guy

MY NAME IS JOE BUCKWHEAT. I GET $4 A WEEK. I'VE BEEN GETTING IT FOUR YEARS. I NEVER HAD A RAISE. THIS IS WHAT I DO:
KEEP THE WEBSTER, K. K. STATION IN GOOD CONDITION. LOOK AFTER SWITCH LAMPS IN YARD. BRING THE MAIL BAGS FROM TRAIN TO POST OFFICE
HELP IN THE BAGGAGE ROOM. WORK 14 HOURS A DAY. WORK SEVEN DAYS A WEEK
SEE YOUR A LUCKY CUSS
YUP!! NOTHIN' TO DO TILL TOMORROW

JOE MAY GET 2-CENT RAISE

WEBSTER, Sept. 21.—Joe Buckwheat of this place is the original guy with "Nothin' to do 'till to-morrow." It is believed that Taft will admit it when he reads this.

Joe is the all-around man at the station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad here. He went to work there four years ago. He got $4 a week. He gets it yet.

Joe's duties consist simply of keeping the station in good order, looking after switchlamps in the yard, bringing the mail bags from the trains on the possibility of lugging out in the baggageroom, running on telegraph messages and making himself generally useful.

He begins work at 7 in the morning, and at 9 o'clock at night he goes home singing "Nothing to do till to-morrow."

Joe believes that he should get a slight increase and an investigation by an official to-day may result in the desired raise. He works fourteen hours a day for seven days, as Sunday is no holiday for Joe. He gets three and eight tenths cents an hour. Everybody who frequents the station knows Joe Buckwheat, and every Webster person who has business at the station says that Joe is a fine fellow.

Following his day's work Joe is generally able to go to bed without being rocked to sleep. The official who investigated the matter to-day failed to find that Joe had been spending his money on automobile tonrides, and he owns no last horses.

As a result of the thorough investigation made to-day, those who work around the station are in hopes that the corporation may find its way clear for an advance, perhaps to $4.02 or $4.03, although, of course, times are hard, and the income of the company isn't very much over $32,000,000 a year anyway.

MORE LOUVRE ART ROBBERIES

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Following upon other disappearances of works of art which have been made public since the theft of the "Mona Lisa," a sensational revelation is made by the newspaper Paris-Journal, which announces that no fewer than thirty-two pictures of great value which should be in the Louvre and which formed the greater part of a single collection are no longer to be found.

The missing paintings include a celebrated Fragonard entitled "The Two Children," a portrait of Queen Elizabeth by the Dutch painter Miereveli, a portrait of Queen Henrietta Maria by Lely, and an interior by the English painter Roberts.

They were part of a collection of forty-two pictures which belonged to M. Sauvageot, a wealthy amateur, who lived in the first half of the last century, and who presented it to the French nation in 1856. M. Sauvageot's collection during his lifetime was also celebrated for remarkable sculptures, arms and musical instruments.

According to the Paris-Journal, only ten paintings now remain in the Louvre out of the Sauvageot collection of forty-two.

SHAKER HELD IN DEATH CASE

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 21.—Brother Egbert Gillette, head of the Shaker colony at St. Cloud, Fla., who is in jail in Hillsborough County Jail here under a charge of murder as a result of the finding of the coroner's jury, reiterated to-day that his conscience is clear.

"My trust in Divine guidance is as staunch as ever," declared Brother Gillette. "I grieve to a suffering soul that which she desired and which the truer mercy seemed to demand."

Sister Elizabeth Sears, who was also arrested at the time of Sister Sadie's death, was not implicated in the jury's verdict, and she was immediately relieved of the $2,000 bond under which she had been placed.

None of the members of the jury will discuss the nature of the evidence which was brought out during the secret hearing, but it is known that the verdict of the jury was based on testimony given by Brother Bracken, a member of the colony, who was outspoken in his denunciation of criminality of the act of Brother Gillette.

Brother Gillette's counsel said if the Shaker colony may lead others to join him in his resistance, and the ultimate fate of the Shaker farm is problematical.

Bracken declared that at the time of her death, Sister Marchant was in ill health, but that she was able to be up and around, and did not seem to be near to death. He testified that she was a retiring nature, morose, but never cross or irritable. Testimony of physicians who examined the lungs was, it is understood, contrary to the first statements made as to their condition, that while there was symptoms of consumption shown in the autopsy, that the condition of the patient was not necessarily such as that she would have died at an early date.

Bracken was the star witness for the State. After coming from the room he said:

"I am eternally opposed to murder or suicide, or in the aiding or betting of same, and that is the reason why I was sorry to testify.

"Attorney Kribbs of the defense says: 'I do not know what we will offer. Suppose that a boy is wheeling his little sister and they are passing a fruit stand. She begs for an orange. He takes one and gives it to her. Is he a thief? Should he be punished by being sent to a reform school?' No. It is a parallel case to the present one. Sadie Brickham begged to be 'taken from the body' and these innocent people did what they considered a Christian act, and are not criminals.

"The sentiment in Osceola County seems to be that they will never be convicted. 'Don't try it, you can't convict them; better let the case drop,' such is the unanimous sentiment in the community.

A canvass was made among merchants, professional men and clergymen, and a reporter was unable to find one person who favors the prosecution. In fact, it is freely predicted that not even the jury will be able to agree.

HORSE SWIMS DORCHESTER BAY

Earl King, a bay gelding of H. P. Gallup's stable in Dorchester, will probably try to swim to Boston Light next time. As it is, Earl King has two new records for horses, one for a high dive in harness with buggy attached and the other in long-distance swimming, doing a mile and a half from Freeport street, Dorchester, to Savin Hill beach in fine time.

Earl King was driven to O'Connell's wharf and was left on the wharf while Mr. Gallup had a chat with Mr. O'Connell. The horse became frightened, started toward the end of the wharf and made a beautiful dive into deep water, the buggy following. Two of the crew of a schooner put out in a tender and managed to detach the wagon from the horse, who then started for the open sea.

The man in the boat headed him off from that direction, but found that it would be impossible to land him anywhere in the vicinity, where the shore is lined with wharves in the extremity they received orders from Mr. Gallup to pilot the horse across the bay to Savin Hill. Earl King finished the last 100 yards in record time.

CASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

COMET IS STILL VISIBLE TO ALL

Look sharp tonight for Brook's comet. It is steadily going further away from the earth, but if weather conditions are good you can see it by looking at the south, rubbing a line about fifteen degrees northward and a little to the west. It is fuzzy and not as bright as the brightest stars. A field glass will help. Professor C. C. Wendell of the Harvard observatory said today, "I had no trouble finding it last night without the aid of a telescope."

When asked about the report from Toledo that the comet had been lost to observers since last July and that Professor Shoemeyer of St. John's College had rediscovered it Tuesday night, Dr. H. Pickering of the Harvard observatory said:

"I have seen no such announcement and don't believe it. Professor Pickering knows about it, but the Toledo report must have been lost at my time. It's possible that it was seen by some amateur astronomer somewhere, but I'm using toward the earth or not."

It is estimated that the comet's tail is about 200 and a half million miles in length.

Professor Pickering explained that the force of gravitation of the sun attracts the more solid part of a comet and the sun's repulsion moves away the small particles, which make up the tail, so that the tail of a comet is always turned away from the sun.

"If 1,000 times out of 1,000" he continued, "a comet is going toward the sun or moving nearer to the earth, otherwise it would be going around earth in a circle with the earth as center. So it is in this case. It passed between the earth on Sunday, and is both bright and interesting object to study.

"Its measurement and observation will determine its position. By comparison of the results of these with computations we can make more positive computations. That is what is done with all comets."

DR. W. J. MIXTER WEDS MISS FAY

A wedding of wide interest was that today at Woods Hole of Miss Dorothy Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Fay of Beacon street, to Dr. William Jason Mixter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Mixter of Marlboro street. The ceremony took place at the little church at Woods Hole and was followed by a small reception at the Summer home of the Fays.

The wedding was to have taken place in the early Summer at Emmanuel Church, but on account of Miss Fay's ill health was postponed.

Dr. Charles Gallogly Mixter, who graduated June 28 from Harvard Medical School of Management, was his brother's best man, and the ushers were George and Samuel Mixter, the youngest brothers, H. H. Fay Jr., George B. Delaney, Dr. Edmund Richardson, Dr. Herman Kliebert and Dr. Harry Mcdonald of Milwaukee. After an extended tour Dr. Mixter and his bride will live at No. 295 Commonwealth avenue.

BOSTON TO HEAR NEW OPERA STARS

The coming season of the Boston Opera Company, plans for which are announced today, promises to be by far the most brilliant yet undertaken in this city. Several celebrated artists, including more than a score of singers never heard before, will take part in the operas to be presented.

Among the five new operas will be Addison Hayes's "Sardanapalus," which will be the first grand opera written and produced in its host performance on any stage.

The other operas new to Boston will be Wolf-Ferrari's "Le Segrete di Susanna," Franchetti's "Germania," Saint-Saens's "Samson et Dalila" and Massenet's "Werther."

Many New Singers.

The new singers will be Lina Pagliughi, Madeline Dring, Esther Feruthal, Christine Miller, Margarete Hoorte, Gertrude Leblanc Marcheisi, Lucille Marcel, Marie Louise Martinelli, Lucille Meisle, Evelyn Scotney, soprano; Florence Pedersen, contralto; Riccardo Martin, Orville Harrold, Alfred Rameau, Paul Sallaberry and Leopold Simoneau, Gaston Barrera, Max Kaplan and Jean Riddez, baritones, and Giuseppe Bentigoni, Edward Lankow, Vanni Marcoux and Bernard Ohlmanski, basses. There will also be a new premiere danseuse, Mme. Delores Galli from La Scala, Milan.

The noted stars who will make their first appearance during the season will be Emma Eames, Johanna Gadski, Luisa Tetrazzini and Jeanne Gerville-Reache. The short Wagnerian season will bring one of the foremost exponents of the day, Felix Weingartner, who will conduct several performances of "Tristan and Isolde."

The company will include besides those already named Bella Alten, Lucette Le Clerc, Felix Deyhle, Emma Destinn, Mignon Nevada, Fisher, Mary Garden, Carmen Melis, Lillie Nordica, Suzanne Adams, Maria Claessens, Marta Gay, Louise Homer, Margarete Matzenauer and Jean Spurtis; tenors: Luigi Cilla, Edmond Clement, Giuseppe Gorgomi, Hipolito Lazaro, Herman Jadlowker, Leo Slezak and Giovanni Zenatello; baritones, Pasquale Amato, Renaud Blanchart, Rodolfo Fornari, Pierre Letal, Carmine Monteleone, Giovanni Polese, Attilio Pulcini, Maurice Renaud and Antonio Scotti; basses, Jose Mardones, Louis Rothier and Luigi Tavecchia, basses.

The Repertory

The repertory now announced includes, besides the new works already mentioned, "The Girl of the Golden West," "The Barber of Seville," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Aida," "Butterfly," "Manon Lescaut," "Faust," "Traviata," "Martha," "Tosca," "Rigoletto," "Boheme," "Tosca," "Lucia," "Trovatore," "Carmen," "Huguenots," "Pelleas et Melisande," "Balanees," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Hansel and Gretel," and "The Sacrifice."

The season will be under F. X. Cousineau, who is one of the directors of the opera house, is the only one in English connected for the season. This discloses of the rumor that either Herbert's "Natoma" or Parker's "Mona" might be performed.

There will be an exchange of artists between the Boston Company and the Metropolitan, Chicago and Montreal Companies whenever it is mutually convenient and desirable. Among the new singers the most prominent are Lucille Marcel, who is an American by birth and who has made a brilliant success abroad as a dramatic soprano; Zina Brozia, who is famous abroad for her impersonation of Tosca and Manon Lescaut, and Miss Maubelle, wife of the distinguished Belgian poet, who for years has ranked among the foremost European artists.

The season at the Boston Opera House will open Monday, November 27, with a performance of "Samson et Delila" in French, with Maria Gay and Giovanni Zenatello in the principal roles.

FAMOUS GERMAN SINGER COMING

ELENA GERHARDT, GERMAN SOPRANO, WHO IS COMING HERE

ELENA GERHARDT

One of the most interesting new comers in music during the coming season will be Elena Gerhardt, the young German singer who has attracted such notice in Europe during the last three years. Miss Gerhardt is not only a singer of great skill and the possessor of an unusually youthful soprano voice, but she is also a woman of exceeding beauty. Still in her twenties, she has taken her place among the very first ranks of interpreters of songs of today. Her appearance in Boston will be with the Symphony orchestra, for which she is one of the soloists of the coming year. Miss Gerhardt has additional interest for Boston in that she is a protege of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whiting, she was a pupil of Mrs. Whiting and Mr. Nikisch has often been her accompanist at recitals in London, Berlin and other European cities.

ALICE NIELSEN HERE ON ZEELAND

Famous Songbird Would Gladly Sing in Gaelic in Boston if Contract Permits.

Clad in a coral purple satin suit, half-length coat to match, and a sage-tinting Parisian hat of yellow straw and carrying a Chow pup on her arm, Miss Alice Nielsen, the lyric soprano, was a picturesque figure on the main deck of the White Star liner Zeeland when that vessel arrived from Liverpool and Queenstown today.

Yes, Miss Nielsen will be pleased to sing Gaelic songs to Boston audiences if she gets a chance.

There's a bit of explanation to go with that Nielsen-Gaelic story. In London Miss Nielsen remarked to a musical correspondent that she would like to sing Gaelic songs when she arrived on this side for the new season. The enterprising correspondent immediately wired his paper that Miss Nielsen was to sing Gaelic songs in America.

Goes to Worcester First

"I did not mean to have it understood that I was really going to and had plans all made for it," said Miss Nielsen today. "I said that I would like to sing it Gaelic, you know. I learned the Gaelic songs from my mother. I will sing in Gaelic or anything else they want me to in dear Boston. But you know I am under contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York now. I do hope to come to Boston this season as an exchange artist. If the managers will make it possible for me to appear here I will sing in Gaelic or anything else that I can for Boston.

"I am going to Worcester to sing at the Worcester Music Festival. Then I go on an eight-weeks' concert tour with Richard Martin. Then I shall go to New York and settle down to my work with the Metropolitan."

Miss Nielsen is the picture of health. The sounds noted her costume particularly. The wide revers of her half-length coat were faced with white satin.

Much Attached to Dog.

Her hat of yellow straw fitted snugly over her head and came down over her ears so as almost to conceal them. All the reporters allowed it was "some hat."

The Chow pup Miss Nielsen brought from Mother side was intended, when she bought it, as a present to her brother.

But two days became so attached to the dog" said Miss Nielsen, "that my brother's chances of owning it are getting shimmered vard University and his family. Bogart every minute."

The Chow is brown-coated and about a foot long. Against the royal purple of Nielsen's suit and coat he made a beautiful contrast.

With Miss Nielsen on the steamer was Miss Maria Paporello, assistant mistress of the ballet of the Boston Opera Company. She has been studying new ballet movements in Paris and brings back a quantity of ideas and novelties for the Boston ballet.

Christening in the Cabin.

A girl baby was born to Mrs. Hannah Rose, a steerage passenger on Monday. Mrs. Rose was on her way to Boston from Russia to join her husband, who came here a short time ago. The ocean passengers, as soon as they heard of the birth of the child, insisted upon having a christening in the cabin. This was done with the Rev. A. J. Graham of Rochester, N. Y., officiating. The baby was christened Zeelandia Maria, in honor of the ship. Lennox Robinson, the Irish playwright, and another passenger, acted as sponsors. A fund raised for the baby and its mother netted $140.

Among the other passengers were Mrs. A. S. Abbey, wife of Senator Abbey of Cambridge; Professor Ephraim Everton of Harvard University and his family; Bogart Jackson Jr., electrical engineer, who reported the new system of telephone rates for Greater Boston, and who has been engaged in engineering work for the British government; Professor G. A. Loosis of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Rev. W. E. Soudan of the Imperial College, Saint St. Chinn, who has come to America to raise a fund of $1,000,000 to establish a new university in China; Professor T. W. Richards of Harvard, who delivered the Farrady address on chemistry at London, and upon whom degrees of Doctor of Science were conferred by Oxford, Cambridge and Manchester universities and Professor W. W. Baker and wife, formerly of Rodney and now of Pennsylvania.

Alice Nielsen snapped by an American photographer before she landed from the liner Zeeland. The singer was toting her Chinese dog Charles, which she brought from Europe.

CHAMBER HEAD PRAISES FOSS

President George S. Smith of the Chamber of Commerce issued a statement today declaring that, in his opinion, Governor Foss had laid aside all political considerations in selecting a man for chairman of the dock commission, which he believes will spend $100,000,000 in the next seven years for the improvement of Boston's commercial facilities.

"I want to say a strong word for the Governor," said President Smith. "He is a business man, and I believe he has taken the proper view of the situation and set out to secure the biggest men possible for the dock commission."

President Smith said that while the Chamber of Commerce cannot, for its by-laws, endorse any man for public office, the Governor had asked him for the co-operation of leading business men and he and others had recommended men to the Governor—about a half dozen for chairman and a dozen for the other positions. He is pleased that his views were followed.

"The chairman of the dock commission has got to be a great business getter," said President Smith. He was asked if he had any assurance from the Governor that he would take thirty days more to make the appointments.

"No," he said. "Of course, I have been in close touch with the Governor, meeting him several times a week, and he has said to me, in effect: 'I consider these appointments the most important of my administration and I am giving the matter the most serious consideration, feeling that I should take as much time as is necessary to sift it all the way down and be absolutely sure that we have got the right man.'"

RICH MAN KILLED IN AUTO COLLISION

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning two large automobiles, traveling north at a high rate of speed on Ocean avenue, Brooklyn, and believed to have been racing, came into collision. The smaller of the cars was lifted in the air and thrown with great force against a large tree. The car overturned and crushed, killing in three of the four passengers. William M. Kenny, aged sixty-odd, a wealthy milk dealer of Brooklyn, owner of the car, was killed instantly. Frederick Gedney of Brooklyn and H. B. McDougal of Brooklyn were severely injured. Willard Blake, a son of William M. Evans, who was driving the car, escaped with bruises. Three men and women who were in the car that caused the tragedy sped on, singing and laughing.

CITY STREETS IN POOR CONDITION

By J. C. KERRISON.

A great many of the city streets are in the worst condition imaginable," said a prominent motorist today. Take for instance Massachusetts avenue, which from Huntington avenue to Beacon street is perhaps one of the busiest sections of the uptown district during business hours, and you will find it a veritable washboard," he said. "It is full of holes that are most dangerous to every sort of vehicular traffic and really a disgrace to the city.

"It is worse," said he, "than any of the old rocky road to Dublin that existed not so very long ago on Beacon street and a disgrace to the city. There are many streets that need the close attention of the street engineers and their present condition is not what one looks for entirely to motor travel," like, for instance, this stretch of Boylston street alongside the Public Garden and in fact for many miles by the condition I should think would be perhaps one of the busiest thoroughfares in the entire city. There will come a time when greater attention will be paid to the condition of the city streets, and then we will all be happy. It will be in the years to," said he, "however.

The AMERICAN has received many favorable comments on its story of last Sunday regarding the apparent ignorance of the lantern law by drivers of horse-drawn vehicles. Manager Gormullet of the Ladue Company said: "It was a timely story right to the point as I can testify. It was my firm's right that Mr. Crittenden and myself covered fifteen miles of State highways and during that trip counted no less than thirty-five horse-drawn vehicles without lights, and five teams whose lanterns were lighted, but were carried under the drivers seat, so whatever light there was from them was sent back into the body of the wagon and not forward.

JUDGE FORSAITH STILL SHUDDERS AT MEMORY OF THE POMEROY CASE

Judge William J. Forsaith, who retires from the Municipal Court bench of Boston on October 1, to spend the rest that is presided over what was probably the first juvenile court in the United States, way back in 1872.

Judge Forsaith also is proud of his record on the bench, almost forty years, for he does not regard as slightly low for that Jesse Pomeroy was arraigned before him for an assault upon one of his fellow boy playmates in 1873. Pomeroy was only about fourteen years old at that time. Forsaith presided then, but to this day the veteran jurist cannot think of the prisoner without a shudder.

"I think I am the oldest magistrate in the state in point of length of time of the reception of Judge Fox of the District Court of Taunton, who has or lately has celebrated his fortieth anniversary on the bench," said Judge Forsaith to the writer for the AMERICAN.

William J. Forsaith was born in Newport, N. H., on April 19, 1836, but notwithstanding the several years he has been as if he had just passed the half century mark. Since 1872 he has served in both civil and criminal cases with little interruption, and has the honor of being the first justice of a juvenile Court established by the Commonwealth.

Is Dartmouth Man.

He prepared for college at the Kimball Union Academy, New Hampshire, entering Amherst, where he studied two years, in 1854. He was graduated from Dartmouth College with the class of 1857. For the year he read law in his home town. He studied from January to September of 1859 in a Boston office, spent a term at the Harvard Law School, and during the first half of 1860 was in the office of Ramsey and Moore, being admitted to the bar in May.

"Then," said he, "I started to look for cases in a hurry. He was associated with Benjamin Hallett and his son, and his success as a practitioner led to appointment by Governor Washburn to the position of Special Justice of the Municipal Court, in 1872.

"From that year I served till May, 1882, when I was appointed Associate Justice of the Municipal Court of Boston, which I resigned as a promotion, by Governor Long, Judge Forsaith said.

In 1872 I was made trial justice of juvenile offenders—a new office, separate from the Municipal Court. Prior to this time the judge of probate had had the disposition of juvenile offenders. I served as such justice for five years, when the act creating the position was repealed and the functions went back to the regular Criminal Court—why, I do not know.

"The work was trying. I couldn't help having sympathy for those boys who were brought in for all kinds of offenses. And there were a great many of them. I had jurisdiction of cases of juveniles throughout Suffolk County. We had the probation system then, too, but not so fully as it is used now.

"The Juvenile Court is doing good work. There is need for a separate court to try civil cases under seventeen and criminal cases under seventeen can still be tried, for I think that is the age limit as it is now, when I had that business.

Pomeroy Once Before Him.

"Probably the most celebrated person who ever came into a court of mine was Jesse Pomeroy. He was before me when he was trial justice of juvenile offenders. He was charged with an assault on some companions—boy companions. He was about fourteen, as I remember, and that must have been in '72, I can see him now. He had with his mother. He had a peculiar white face, but no eyebrows, but aside from that he was just a clean, healthy, normal boy. I committed him to the Westboro Reform School. It was of course after that that he was tried for murder in the Municipal Court.

"He never came before me after that first time. I have read everything that has been printed about him, but I never could quite make out his condition, but the memory of him has always haunted me. I cannot here his name without such a feeling, without almost a shudder.

"After the office of trial justice for juvenile offenders was abolished by the repeal of the act creating it, there was no juvenile court until the present one was created three or four years ago. Yes, it is being good work, work that is part for the judge.

When I commenced my service on the bench of the Municipal Court, we had all the criminal business of East Boston and South Boston. And it was some years afterwards that the courts in the outlying districts of the city and the suburbs, such as Brookline, Roxbury and Charlestown, were created.

Asked about the number of cases he had heard, Judge Forsaith, under a rough calculation, but did not place the number closer than to say they were in the thousands.

I finished my 135th note book the other day. In the criminal cases we don't always take notes, often giving a decision as soon as all the evidence is in. But in civil cases, under exceptions and for reference, where points of law have to be looked up, and the judge sometimes has to reserve his decision, it is customary to take notes.

However, I took very few, relying almost altogether on my memory. It is strong and has been remarked by lawyers. During the trial of cases, I keep the points well in mind, but put them out of my mind when it is over. Then I purposely think of it unless some one recalled it. In civil cases, where juries are empaneled, when a lawyer speaks to me of a case he has had with me, I have something to tell about it, some little thing, it may be one kind or another—brings the whole thing back to me."

Judge W. J. Forsaith.

LABOR MEN ARE ROUTED BY FIRE

HAVERHILL, Sept. 21.—[Special.]—A fire started on the heating and ventilating outside of Federation Hall, in which the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Massachusetts State branch of the American Federation of Labor was in progress, caused excitement among the 200 delegates present and women, inside the hall, at 9:30 to-day.

Before the proceedings were interrupted by the fire, the delegates adopted several resolutions. One of them urged upon the farmers the necessity of effective representation in the Legislature of farming, mechanics and wage earners, another requests the executive board to draw up a bill making it a crime for property owners to discriminate against large families, and a third directs the board to frame a bill compelling park authorities to set apart certain portions of the public parks so that the poor may come out in summer and raise vegetables.

New Tuberculosis Remedy Based on Medicine

To say that a specific exists for the cure of Consumption is perhaps too strong a statement, but in Eckman's Alterative we have a medicine that has been the means of saving many a life to years of usefulness, and is permanently curing a large number of Consumptives.

Certainly a person afflicted with a wasting disease should be well fed with wholesome, nourishing food, but frequently raw eggs in quantities cause a digestive breakdown, and then no food nourishes. As for milk, a very good food for many, but a profuse of inflammation for some.

Any diet that keeps a Consumptive well nourished is the right one, but what is going to cure the patient? Eckman's Alterative has stood alone as a curing agency in cases of Consumption. Let those speak who know. Here is a specimen:

[illegible] Sept. 20, 1907.
Gentlemen: I have used Eckman's Alterative for Pulmonary Consumption, as an Alterative, and as an expectorant, as an emulsion, and as an injection, and the results in each case have been very satisfactory. I have used it in my own family for Consumption, and in my practice for Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Croup, Colds, Coughs, Throat and Lung Troubles, and have found it a most valuable remedy. I have used it in the case of my own child, who was ill with Consumption, and it saved her life. I have used it in the case of my own child, who was ill with Consumption, and it saved her life. I have used it in the case of my own child, who was ill with Consumption, and it saved her life

ABE ATTELL MEETS HIS MASTER IN MATT WELLS OF ENGLAND

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

RED SOX GO AFTER TIGERS' SCALPS FOR A CLEAN

English Lightweight Is Too Much for Abe Attell

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, is made of the right kind of stuff to be a champion boxer. In one of the fastest, cleverest and most interesting battles held in a decade he outpointed Abe Attell last night at Madison Square Garden. A outstanding fact for him very seldom allowed Abe's fine speed to get the best of the Englishman. He was also a match at hanging on left around and taking body blow after body blow without showing the effects of them.

Wells outclassed little Abe, weighing 137 pounds, under the featherweight championship limit, by at least 12½ pounds. His handicap was rather harsh on Attell as the Englishman is known for that took advantage of his superior poundage in all the clinches.

Attell may be proud of his showing last night, although it was not up to the best and the same strenuous career. It is quite possible that he has passed his left arm during the contest, and never seemed to have recovered difficulty with the injured member in the opening round.

Wells started rushing, but was the aggressor from the start. Abe's speed, however, in ducking had Wells baffled, and he kept trying Attell out with lefts. Wells made several dents at Attell, but the latter stepped back and made Wells look clumsy. There was little chance for either to land a clean wallop in the early rounds, Wells confining himself to the second and third little trouble. Attell, who was crowded, very cleverly worked around Wells' left, and Wells, looking right hooks that surprised Wells and made the Englishman rather sever blows swing.

In the fifth Wells left to Abe's nose and his work was superb. He got to in close and Attell was forced to clinch. Wells started hooking his right to the jaw, a few of which struck Attell on the chin and to the body that made Wells back away. Just before the bell Wells exchanged right swings to the jaw.

The Englishman started forcing Attell around in the fourth. He cracked a left to Abe's nose and swung his right to follow up. Abe danced in and made Wells miss. Wells, however, was not to be confident at this point and surprised by not doing most of his work with his left.

In the fifth Wells left to Abe's nose and his right to the chin. Abe's mouth began to bleed a little and Wells got a neat look he snapped Abe's head back, upsetting him for the latter moment. Abe seemed to show up a little under punishing pace. Wells was forced to the ropes, taking most of the same out of Abe's right swings. The first knockdown of this bout was scored in the seventh, when Wells was sent out to fight in the middle of the ring. Abe whipped his left to Wells' head, but the latter ducked this and, coming around the body, left to Abe's head, knocking him down. Wells looked away and kept his right hand behind his head in case Attell should rush. Attell fell into another clinch during the round, but Wells showed that the Englishman again looked the best, proceeding to the end of the round doubling up the fight.

Abe showed his best work in the seventh, when he jabbed Wells's head with his left seven times without a return. Wells then started to rough it up heavily on Abe's shoulders, but Abe very well and Abe took advantage of Wells' wide swings by quickly rushing in. This was Abe's last attempt.

In the next three rounds both seemed to wear down considerably in pace. They were fighting like two cats at the bell. After the bout Attell he was in the best of shape.

That the fight from this fifth it want to get a run for their money Rush, Wells, Some six thousand fans seated around the big amphitheatre the seats bedded down the aisles. Jack Curley placed the receipts around $50 Drake, 17. Eagle 19.

The police were strictly on the job, Lewis, 17. kept things in moving order on the Moriarty, 20. side. Inside everything was handled Strange, 5. the white kid gloves. The only baron Donovan, p. were in the "five plunk" seats around the ringside, but between the rounds Huntington Avenue Ball Park. than at the previous shows, and stars seemed scarce from the press box.

A telegram was received from Pat Sept. 21.—Bugbe Jennings this afternoon Welsh, challenging Abe Attell, and also urged a friend to bet $200 on Wells, showing that business in Wells is the youth who swiped Freddie Welsh championship.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE BALL PARK, Sept. 21.—Bugbe Jennings this afternoon Welsh, challenging Abe Attell, and also urged a friend to bet $200 on Wells, showing that business in Wells is the youth who swiped Freddie Welsh championship.

A telegram was received from Pat Sept. 21.—Bugbe Jennings this afternoon trailed that if he would put a stop to the waiting of Detroit's chip hope for the American League pennant he must prevent the Red Sox from making it three straight today. Two in a row was bitter medicine for the Detroit leader to swallow, but he never was known to give up, and while no doubt but himself thinks the Tigers have a chance in the world to beat the Athletics now, he will fight for every game.

Meantime, encouraged by the great battles of the two preceding days, Donovan's men planned to gain another step in the direction of their goal—the first division. New York, which now holds the rung above the Red Sox, was to meet a hardy foe in Cleveland today, and it was possible that the gap between first and second divisions might be perceptibly diminished as a result of this afternoon's struggle. The Sox were in a fighting mood and appeared to be in shape to further their ambition to "clean up" the series.

NEWSBOYS THANK HUGH A. M'BREEN

Mr. E. L. Curran, superintendent of the Boston Newsboys' Club, sent the following letter of thanks to Mr. Hugh McBreen, secretary of the Red Sox. Here is the letter:

Mr. Hugh McBreen, Secretary
Boston American Baseball Club,
Boston, Mass.

I wish to thank you and through you the management of the Boston American League grounds for kindness in allowing the club to use Huntington avenue park on August 19, 1911, for a benefit for the Newsboys' Outing Club.

Yours very truly,
E. L. CURRAN, Supt.

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburg, Sept. 21.—The Rustlers this afternoon looked fit to give Pittsburg a chase for victory in today's game, and a turn in luck might give it to them, for yesterday they made the Pirates fight every inch of the way.

Smoky City fans were as anxious to win as was Manager Clarke himself, for he saw a chance to oust Chicago from second place. The Rustlers put in a fast practice and at the outset seemed formidable enough to wrest the honors from the local crew.

ELMER COLLINS WINS FROM ERNEST PYE

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Elmer Collins of Lynn, Mass., easily won a 10-mile motor-paced bicycle race with Ernest Pye of Australia at the Newburg velodrome last night in 13m 47s.

In the 10-mile open professional race there was a sensational spill in the fifth mile in which Jackie Clarke, Alfred Goullet, Frank Kramer, Fred Hill and Walter Rutt were all thrown and badly shaken, but none was seriously injured.

Joe Fogler of Brooklyn won the race, with Eddie Root of Boston second. The time was 23m 57s.

Zimmerman, Cubs' Regular First Baseman Next Year

By BILL BAILEY.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—It would not be a bit surprising to see Heine Zimmerman become the regular first baseman of the Cubs.

The P. L. wants Heine in the game. Big Heine wants to be in the game. The big German is hitting .318. Now when a weak hitter comes along and asks the manager why he isn't in the game the boss can form and say, "Well, if you would get out there and show me that you could hit I'd put you in." If the P. L. sprung that on Zimmerman all that Heine would have to do would be to grab a newspaper containing the batting averages and point out that .318.

Thinks Heine Good Sacker.

Chance was talking about Heine the other day. It was the day that Evers went to bench and Bresnahan to first.

Heine grabbed mitts in good first baseman," said the P. L. "You see, he can bid. And when a player can do the way Heine has been this year it's mighty tough to keep him out of the game."

Heine's chums are usually of the clean cut and broad-minded sort of fellows you will won't play second base like Evers. Still, you can't get away from the fact that Heine can bid.

Not one man in the big league has been as hard as any one on the team and many he is sitting around the bench or playing stunts only when something happens to one of the regulars.

Heine would like to play first. There is no disguising that fact. In fact, Heine would like to play anywhere just so long as he can be termed a regular. Any time you offer him as a substitute you run in for some trouble and Manager Brown is absent the only fellow who can leave fun at Heine's expense along. Not Brown.

When Heine was in the game regularly and Bresnahan was landed to pitch, Zimmerman would go to the twirler before the game began.

Offers Encouragement.

"Well, old sport, we'll be out there hustling for you this afternoon," Heine would say. Showed he was interested and wanted to encourage the three-fingered gent.

"What?" Brownie would query, and there was surprise in his voice. "You still in the game?"

"Go on you," Heine would retort.

But he wouldn't get angry at Brown. Nor does anyone else on this West Side ball club for that matter.

"I'm no bench man, says Heine. "I'm at my best when I'm in there every day."

There are many fans and some of the club officers who have no idea that Heine has made considerable business as a first baseman. To begin with he has the ideal build for a first sacker. He has had experience around second and third base with the result that he should be a pretty safty man on the ground balls. He isn't a bit fussy when it comes to taking wild base runners. He is fleet of foot and fast generally.

And there's no reason why Heine's ability as a pitcher should be set down here. That's a question of history and of statistics. The averages will show that he is hitting .318, which is the best average in the world that he can slug.

This isn't nominating Zimmerman as candidate for first base. That was done several days ago.

Desperate Desmond

Copyright, 1911, by the National News Association

"I'm the boy!" cries Desperate Desmond, "and I can swim like a fish!" The scoundrel, clinging Rosamond in one arm, now burning down to his head, can see no ray of hope. All he can do is to choose the mode of his death; no he decides to drown rather than to burn. He uses a burning cinder to make a hole through the barrel.

Poor Claude Eclaire! Our hero, imprisoned in the donting barrels, which are see floating near the barrel in which Claude is imprisoned, and as the water rushes into the barrel the oars are drawn there also. This seemingly unimportant thing may prove to have a great effect on the fortunes—or rather misfortunes—of Claude.

Two oars, abandoned by some fishermen, look and a great deal of pluck, have once more furnished him with a chance for life and love. It may be the last, but he will never give up. Take the example of our hero, who knows that right must eventually triumph—with a few rare exceptions.

See how Claude rows rapidly along and has almost reached the beach, from which he can hear the sound of friendly voices. Indeed, all voices, except those of Desmond and his Wild Men, are friendly to our hero. Some persons have gone over Niagara Falls in a barrel, but their stunt was foolish. Claude's necessary

The Manicure Lady

She Tells the Head Barber About a Coming Out Party

"I SEE that some of these reverend doctors has got themselves in Dutch," remarked the Manicure Lady. "I was reading over a gent's shoulder coming down this morning in the car, and I seen where a reverend doctor named Richmond was called a freak by some of his superiors just because he said that the members of the Four Hundred ought to cut out all them pomps and insanities of the wicked world. I never expected none in that set, George, but perhaps that preacher feller was right. What do you know about conditions as they subsist in the Four Hundred?"

"I ain't never gave it much thought," said the Head Barber. "Being as none of our set ever broke into Newport, even long enough to referee a tennis game, I ain't sure about how regular the fancy folks are. All I know about society in general is that I don't belong."

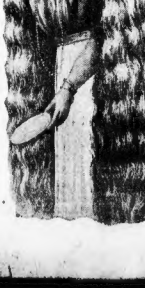
"You and something that time, George," said the Manicure Lady. "I had some experience in society when I was a kid out in Wisconsin. There was three or four of us girls that and just graduated from the High School, and our feelings being of the good old stock that wouldn't know the difference between a cotillion and a quilting bee, thought that was would give us a 'coming out' party, seeing that we'd had first came out of the High School. It seems that our mothers thought a coming out party was just a case of cooling out of arithmetic into algebra, like a turtle might come out of his cave, if turtles live in caves.

"Well, anyhow, George, it was some party. Ma and the other tillers was there for which the party was given for. The members of the smart set, the girls that Ma had asked against the old gelt's advice. Was about as far away as many of them planets that the astronomers is all the time telling us about. Mother had wore on the bottom of all their invitations R. S. V. P., which means come if you want to, or something like that. The girls of the smart set must have thought something different, if they ever did any thinking, because they never showed up at all. Mother was a little sad about it at first, but the old gent told her that it served her right. Never try to break into the upper crust,' the old gent told Ma. 'Unless you have at least one uncle that is a banker and two more that is also looking forward to a term in a Federal Prison.'

"Well, George, it is all too deep for me," said the Manicure Lady. "Any time for Blow, the bookmaker, comes in here with one of his dope sheets, I can understand how all the horses ought to run, time to form up in Canada. If anything up there ever runs true to form, but when it comes to doping out what Wilfred calls the eternal conflict between chemin and stake, I decline me out. Let them that wants to marry get married, I say. There ought to be a rummy to get shaved, George, and what I had first came out of the High School. It ever you do give him plenty of hot towels."

A LITTLE DANDERINE WILL MAKE YOUR HAIR LUSTROUS, SOFT, FLUFFY, ABUNDANT

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff



If you Wish to Double the Beauty of your Hair in Ten Minutes surely Try a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. But try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Try as you will, after one application of Danderine you cannot find a trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair, and your scalp will never itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair sprouting all over the scalp. Danderine makes the hair grow long, heavy and luxuriant and we can prove it. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Synopsis of Preceding Instalments

JOHN MARTINDALE volunteers for five years' missionary service in fever-stricken Cambuia and thereby sacrifices, temporarily, the fulfilment of his love for Clemency Westgarth. Conrad Tring, his close friend, declares he was intended for a pirates' not a parson, and warns him against the dire possibilities of Cambuia. He bids good-bye to his sweetheart and goes to consult Mrs. Katherine Saxe, wife of the head of the missionary movement in Cambuia, whom he is going to take out to her husband. He arrives in town only to find a letter from Mrs. Saxe postponing their meeting. In a restaurant, while re-reading a letter, he looks up to meet a woman's eye. She speaks to him and it turns out she is Mrs. Saxe. He recognizes her as a girl he had known as Kitty Lomax, who, before her marriage, saved his life when he was dying of fever.

GABY DESLYS SAYS:

But you must not miss the announcement by the beautiful French girl who combines the loveliness and personality of Venus with the intelligence of Minerva.

SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

Kitty tries to dissuade him from going to Cambuia, but he will have none of her arguments. He arrives in West Africa with Kitty and the latter's husband prepares to go to the coast to meet her, a day's journey from Cambuia itself. The old friendship of Kitty and Martindale has been largely responsible for the long journey to West Africa.

Martindale discovers indications, meaning to him that Kitty does not love her husband.

PART ONE—(Continued)

"DON'T stare at me as though I were dirt under your feet! What have you ever done to help me to fight my weakness? You've driven me to it—you've never been a wife to me. Oh, I dare speak the truth. Yes, I know I'm drunk, but in this very case—the only miserable consolidation I had was that if you were cold to me you were cold, too, to other men; that you had no need of them. But that's over—over—over this man you knew in England—d'you think I'm blind, Kitty, that I can't see you look at him as you have looked at no other man? You're in love with your partner—you can't deny it! And he with you—you, another man's wife.

Martindale heard no more. With startling swiftness, he stood sprung from the bed, his hands flung up to his ears, cutting off all sound as by a wall of silence.

That was the voice of John Saxe, tant drunken, angry voice; the voice of John Saxe speaking to his wife.

And what was it that John Saxe had said?

Martindale hardly knew how he subsided to the floor and down the creaking stairs from the room where all unconscious, he had played the eavesdropper, and so into the next laden night, whose stillness reached him with no relief-giving breath.

But what he did know was that there unutterably stirred words of Kitty's husband had torn down the curtain of illusion that had hung between himself and truth—the curtain that had stirred once or twice, even within the last twenty-four hours, but had never been lifted.

The end came with rather startling suddenness. It was an end and not a beginning.

They had passed five of the nine days of the journey up-country. A start had been made the day following Martindale's unsettling eavesdropping. At 7 o'clock the next morning John Saxe had appeared and ordered a forced march, and it was characteristic of the man that because he willed it so the preparations by 8 o'clock were so far advanced as though the start had been arranged for that hour.

He had shown no trace of what Martindale knew had occurred on the previous evening. He was the same blunt, good-humored man that he had always seemed, and up to the present point of the journey he had not altered.

Wondered Afresh

Lying awake to-night Martindale found himself wondering afresh about the man and the mask he wore. It was a wonder that it was beginning to obsess him. Sometimes he had been inclined to think that the revelation that had come to him in the

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Industrials led in the weakness which was one of the salient characteristics of the irregular stock market opening today. Steel common sold off 5/8 and the preferred 1¼.

The advanced rate of discount by the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank of Belgium was overshadowed in the market influence by evidence presented of progressive adjustment of outstanding examinations to change into corporate character in conform with these trusts which have already been reorganized under the Sherman anti-trust act. Huge blocks of United States steel were thrown on the market. The common from ¼ sold off a full point while the per sent dropping until it was five points under last night's closing.

American Beet sugar declined over a point. Central leather common and General Electric were also weak and sold off about a point.

For a time after the opening the railroad group was strong, the latter was depressed, affected by the weak tone of the industrials.

U. S. 4's and 2's opened unchanged. Southern and Union Pacific opened ¼ up but became weak on the general decline. Canadians, although under heavy realizing in London, opened here unchanged.

The curb market opened steady. Americans in Lights were easy and above par, until the New York market opened.

SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

A report that the Steel Trust was ready to dissolve caused the stock to break wide open at the opening of the market. The common lost 2 and the preferred 1¼ points in fifteen minutes. The dissolution plans briefly agreed on are as follows: The United States Steel Corporation—the Steel Trust—is to separate into three companies, one controlling the steel making business, another the railroads and local lines and the third ore lands. The government insists that the entire steel trade be given a right to buy ore on the same terms as the United States Steel Corporation, and that the railroads transport all character of foreign merchandise, including steel products, without any discrimination whatever in favor of the United States Steel Corporation. It is said that this plan has been very reluctantly accepted by the directors of the United States Steel Corporation.

The Bank of France to-day advanced its minimum rate of discount 1 per cent to 3½ per cent. This is the first change made by the bank in its discount rate since January 23, 1908. The Bank of England has also advanced its minimum rate of discount 1 per cent to 4 per cent.

The annual report of the Reading for the year ending June 30, 1911, shows a surplus of $11,280,265, including $2,320,559 expended for betterments and additions. After allowing for fixed charges and rent, dividends on both preferred stocks the surplus is equal to 12.5 per cent on the common as compared with 14.55 per cent in 1910.

Rumors say that an agreement has been reached to support the market until Morgan & Co. as pool managers. It is very doubtful whether even a pool of Morgan the magnitude could stop liquidation unless accompanied with an offset to easement from the administration at Washington that the trusts were being given time for agreement and without litigation. A pool manager will say nothing about a pool of politicians working in harmony.

Of course, negotiations between the Department of Justice and the corporations implicated in the trust cases have been on even then because the government might ask too much. The Harvester case may easily be brought within the strictest construction of the law because its trade power lies in patents rather than in its combinations. But the Steel Corporation would undoubtedly resist any radical changes in its business methods.

Owing to the crop failures in Europe, further liquidation from the Continent is much more likely than further purchases of American stocks. Not only that, but the heavy sales of American securities in Europe have already reduced the balance of trade in favor of the United States very materially. Newspapers are saying that idle disturbances in Europe are political. That is the way crop failures always appear to the public. The people are deceived by newspapers that refuse to tell the truth about bad conditions and when those conditions become so bad that they place every citizen the great public pounces upon either the government or the moneyed interests. The moneyed interests are largely to blame, for, in the lone of stock selling on the market, they usually try to make conditions appear better than they really are.

The increase in the capitalization of the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston from $2,500,000 to $5,000,000 places the concern on a par with the largest trust companies of the country. Total assets are more than $104,000,000. Deposits on June 1, 1911, were $90,579,228, against $63,807,175 on Sept. 1910. The increased capital is another step in the merger of the City Trust Company, which took effect on Feb. 19, 1910. The City Trust has previously absorbed the Merchants' Trust and the Massachusetts Trust, but until recently the three retained their corporate existence under the old names. A cash dividend was declared from earnings by the Old Colony Trust and shareholders were given the right to apply this to the purchase of additional stock.

RUNAWAY KILLS OLD FIRE HORSE

"Dan," the last of the most famous three-horse hitch the Cambridge fire department ever had, passed away to-day. Before leaving this sphere, "Dan" did his best to prevent his two "grown" companions from running away and gave up his life in the attempt. But for his presidence, though, several factory girls and children might have been killed.

"Dan's" two noted companions were disabled recently. To-day he was hitched to Engine 8, East Cambridge, with two new animals. In Third street, near Vine, part of the harness broke and the two lively recruits made a bolt for liberty. Dan, who was in the middle, resisted, but the team dragged the driver from the hands of Driver J. J. Callanan and dashed through Vine street. Dan's engine stalled leaving him helpless.

The streets were filled with factory girls going to lunch and school children passing home. Dan lagged until all the time trying to stop his companions, and he guided them from scores of girls and children as they plunged along. Finally he brought them to a stop in front of the home of the Superior Court Building. But one of the horses broken in the fall and he had to be shot.

SWEETHEART COMES BACK AFTER 45 YEARS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Forty-five years ago Miss Emma Smith and George Meyer, living in Brooklyn, were sweethearts. She was eighteen, he twenty. Her parents objected to the marriage and the engagement was broken off. Meyer left Brooklyn and has since married three times. His third wife died about two years ago. Miss Smith remained true to his memory. He returned to Brooklyn and met his boyhood sweetheart. Their engagement was announced to-day. "We are both very happy," said Miss Smith. "Love will revive our youthful days so that we can live our lives over again." The wedding will come, soon waited."

The Demoralized Condition of the Republican Party in Massachusetts

The progress of disintegration is going on rapidly in the Republican party of this Commonwealth. A difference of opinion concerning the mission of the party and its duty to the public, is a difference which goes to the very bottom of a party organization, and it separates men from the bottom to the top.

Not in a generation or perhaps since the Civil War has the party been so torn asunder as it is torn now, and the ripping progress is still going apace. The Republican rallies held for the purpose of determining, under our new direct nomination law, the next Republican candidate for Governor, have been the scenes of internal dissension and public denunciation of one Republican leader by another, such as was never known before.

Speaker Joseph Walker on Saturday night publicly attacked Senator Lodge, the titular head of the Republican party, because Mr. Lodge was using the power of the Republican State machine to prevent Mr. Walker's nomination.

Mr. Walker will remember that the AMERICAN reminded him during Senator Lodge's desperate contest for re-election that he could himself be the Senator from Massachusetts if he would take the leadership of the forces hostile to Mr. Lodge in the Republican party. Mr. Walker for reasons which were satisfactory to himself at the time, preferred to remain Speaker of the House and to nourish his ambition to be Governor. So he coldly supported the senior Senator, but gave him an effective support by demoralizing the opposition with the absence of a leader.

Mr. Walker has grown in true statesmanship since he became Speaker of the House of Representatives. He has moved forward his point of view until he is wholly out of touch with the reactionary group, which, under the leadership of the two United States Senators, is still trying to hold the control of the Republican party in Massachusetts.

It is difficult to understand upon what theory of policy Mr. Walker thought he could permit Senator Lodge, recognized throughout the country as a high priest of reaction and standpattism, to retain political power in this State, and at the same time, himself seek the gubernatorial nomination as a Progressive without the hostile interference of Mr. Lodge.

If he reckoned upon a virtuous gratitude in Mr. Lodge, he failed to consider that a man who has received so much honor from the people of Massachusetts and whose private fortune raises him so far above the temptations that beset those who have the power to serve the people or to serve the Interests, and who yet deserts the public welfare upon almost every vital question when it is the few against the many, must be quite incapable of real gratitude.

If Mr. Walker reckoned upon Senator Lodges's politic gratitude he failed to consider the fact that successful independence is the worst misfortune which can overtake a political autocrat, and that gratitude from policy would not be as effective as the putting down of Mr Walker's independence.

Mr. Walker helped to rehabilitate Senator Lodge's political power, and he is now taking the consequence which he and every Progressive Republican should have anticipated when they defaulted in their opposition to Senator Lodge's re-election.

Mr. Norman H. White was also relying upon Senator Lodge's gratitude. It is apparent that he, too, is suffering at the hands of the Republican machine. He has protested publicly and privately against the interference of the Republican State Committee in the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. He was one of the most aggressive chieftains in the Lodge cause last Winter. But, presumably, Mr. Lodge remembers that the mill is never turned by the waters that have passed, and Mr. White's services to Senator Lodges's re-election have been rendered and cannot be recalled.

Mr. White also was independent on the great railroad question which is disturbing Massachusetts. That is a treason to a Reactionary almost equal to treason to the machine itself.

It was, therefore, not good judgment for Mr. White to rely upon the politic gratitude of Senator Lodge.

Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham is the beau ideal of the reactionary element in this State. All that is bad in a government of and for and by those business interests which rely upon legislative favor for their extortionate profits at the expense of the public, have always found in Mr. Frothingham a willing agent. Against such a man neither Mr. Walker nor Mr. White had the right to expect the assistance of the chief votaries of standpattism in this State.

But there are thousands of men in Massachusetts who are loath to abandon the Republican party, and yet scorn the purposes to which it has been prostituted in the last few years as heartily as Lincoln would scorn them if he lived to-day. Those men probably constitute a majority of the Republican party, and if they were to act as they think, the Republican machine would be swept away. And even if they are too discouraged and disgusted to express their opinion at the primaries, they exist as a great force that widens the breach in the Republican party.

Contrasted to this civil war among the Republicans, is the peace and good will everywhere manifested in the Democratic party.

The signs by which Victory heralds her coming, all point to the Democratic banners this year.

Gov. Foss Promotes a Good Judge

The elevation of Judge DeCourcy from the Superior to the Supreme Bench by Governor Foss, is a recognition of demonstrated ability most pleasing to those who wish our Supreme Bench to have the best talent which it is possible to give it.

Judge DeCourcy displayed high judicial qualities almost at the moment he took up his duties in the Superior Court. He has been satisfactory to all kinds of lawyers and all kinds of litigants.

A judge who always conducts himself as DeCourcy behaved during his term of service on the Superior Bench would never need to fear the exercise of the power of recall.

In the Supreme Court, Judge DeCourcy can be of higher service, and the AMERICAN hopes that he will take up his new task with the resolution to make the law suitable to the changing conditions of the day and will resolve his doubts in favor of the human side of every question.

THESE FLYING MACHINES MAKE OUR MISSIONARY WORK SO MUCH EASIER TO DO! NOW HERE I AM ON MY WAY TO THE WILDS OF AFRICA! IN A FEW HOURS INSTEAD OF WEEKS I AM THERE!
OH! THIS IS TOO BAD JUST AS I WAS A-BOUT TO LAND. WELL, I AM HERE ANYWAY. SO LONG AS I DO NOT GET HURT! I'LL LAND IN THE JUNGLE—
PERHAPS AMONG THE TREES WHICH WILL BREAK MY FALL! AH, I SEE A VILLAGE NEAR BY! I WILL—
THERE IS NOTHING TO EAT IN THE PANTRY BUT SOME DRIED UP RHINOCEROS HIDE YOUR ROYAL AND MAGIC MAJESTY! CAN'T YOU!
YES, I WILL COMMAND FOOD TO DROP FROM THE SKY TO US AT ONCE
AH! I AM SAFE! I PRESUME THAT IS THE KING YONDER!
OH! EVEN THE GODS OBEY YOUR MAJESTY'S COMMAND!
MOST WONDERFUL KING OF KINGS!
THERE IS FOOD MY LOYAL PEOPLE!
JUST A FEW WORDS, MY CHILDREN—
USE PLENTY OF GARLIC AND ROAST HIM BROWN
I COME TO ANNOUNCE, DINNER IS NOW READY IN THE DINING CAR YOUR MAJESTY
HUM! I CAN'T KEEP AWAKE. I SHOULD RETIRE BUT I MUST FINISH THIS MANUSCRIPT!

THE STOVE ON WHICH I WAS COOKING MY DINNER SUDDENLY VANISHED FROM THE KITCHEN!
COME WATSO, THIS SEEMS PROMISING!
MOST REMARKABLE!
THERE'S WHERE THE STOVE STOOD! I STEPPED INTO THE PANTRY A MOMENT AND IT WAS GONE—POTS, PANS AND ALL!
TUT! TUT! WATSO—THERE ARE NO SIGNS OF AN EXPLOSION AND NO STOVE CAN WHALE ANATOMY WORK CONCEITED LOOKS LIKE MAGIC!
DO YOU NOTICE THAT CINDER? IT FELL FROM THE STOVE AS IT WAS BEING TAKEN IN THIS DIRECTION!
ASTOUNDING!
WATSO, PROBABLY YOU SEE NO CONNECTION BETWEEN THAT KEG OF BEER AND THIS MYSTERY—
SO, MR. NERO, JUST TO COOK SOME PICNIC GRUB, YOU APPROPRIATE A NEIGHBOR'S RED HOT STOVE!!
WELL THE BOYS WANTED SOME HOT FOOD FOR DINNER SO THE LADY ONE SEND FOR THE STOVE WHEN WE GET THROUGH HOCUS POCUS DIDDLEPATE!!
PICNIC GROUNDS
NEVERTHELESS WE SHALL FOLLOW HIM INTO THOSE PICNIC GROUNDS AND THERE FIND THE SOLUTION!
INCREDIBLE!

PARENTS WHO STAND IN 'AWE OF CHILDREN

THERE are some things which we never learn unless we are initiated into them pretty soon after we are born. The period of adolescence is a good deal longer with human beings than with most other creatures, but even so there is so much to be acquired before a boy is fitted to be a man that time needs to be economized and opportunities seized on the wing.

Although boats are built for the sea they have to be put together on dry land. So, although people are intended for public life, their characters have to be constructed in the privacy of home, and home is a kind of dry dock where business needs to be commenced early and rushed.

One of the elements of character which goes far toward making out the worth of a grown man, and which is never developed unless the process of development is started in a child's first years, is the disposition to regard with respect and even with a kind of religious reverence whatever is superior to one's self in age, ability or character.

A talent for looking up is one of the fine arts—a talent for appreciating the vast difference between what is very low and what is high, between what is minute and that which is luminous.

Man, in Greek, Meant "the Upward-Looking One"

The Greek word for "man" meant originally, we are told, "the upward-looking one," in contrast with the ox and the ass, which go about with their eyes to the ground scarcely ever raised at as much of a slant as ten degrees. If the four-footed ox would not limit its attention to the grass and would let its eyes slide up to the tops of the trees it might grow up into a biped.

It is in some such way, presumably, that quadrupeds began to become men.

All we mean is that one of the first things for a child to realize is that his father's body is a deal bigger than his own, and that it is for him to respect that difference, and that he is himself such a paltry atom in comparison with the age, strength and wisdom of his father that it is indecent for him to cherish toward that father a sentiment differing essentially from the one the father cherishes toward God.

The father and the mother are the first god that the child has, and perhaps the lack of reverence for parents with which children of our generation are chargeable is as much due to the ungodlike character and bearing of the parents as to the unreverential disposition of the children.

At any rate, it is in the home relations of children to parents that the child's first lesson of reverence has to be learned, and unless acquired there it will probably never be acquired, and the child will go through life incapable of whatever is superior to itself, indifferent to the claims of righteous authority, whether of man or God.

Parents are coming to stand more in awe of their children than the children do of their parents. We reap as we sow. Filial contemptuousness, in the home, is the seed kernel of social irregularity and political anarchy.

Things finish as they begin. Things are settled at the hearthstone. Civilization is still anchored to the "First Commandment with promise, Honor thy father and thy mother."

The Squanderer

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

(Reprinted from the Cosmopolitan Magazine)

GOD gave him passions, splendid as the sun;
Meant for the loftiest purposes, a part
Of nature's full and fertile mother heart,
From which new systems and new stars are spun.
And now, behold, behold, what he has done!
In Folly's court and carnal Pleasures' mart
He flung the wealth life gave him at the start.
(This, of all mortal sins, the deadliest one.)

At dawn he stood, potential, opulent,
With virile manhood, and emotions keen
And wonderful with God's creative fire.
At noon he stands, with Love's large fortune spent
In petty traffic, unproductive, mean—
A pauper, cursed with impotent desire.

Adventures of Piute Pete

By MILES OVERHOLT

"I INSIST, to state that I am not entirely out of the hero business," said Piute Pete sadly. "Last Friday was the day set for my resignation, and I resigned. I used to dream about saving heiresses and other folks from watery graves, burning buildings and the like. I used to wake up in the middle of the night and cry for something to happen, so that I might get up and save somebody's life, but I don't do that any more. I have decided to allow better and more deserving men to attend to the hero business.

"Last Friday evening I passed a house in which there was a good deal of turmoil. A swarthy gentleman seemed to have a majority of the votes and was sort of carrying his point with the only wife he had in such a way as to cause her to feel two or three kinds of ingrish. She was occupying most of the floor, while her husband was standing on her head in a rude manner. She seemed to be insinuating that she would stand on her own head whenever it needed any recreation like that, while he was calling the meeting to order by kicking the freckles off her face in an earnest tone of voice.

"It was at this juncture that my cue came, so I entered E. U. E. and endeavored to bring order out of chaos by breaking up parties and packing the convention. I see now where I was wrong. I should have gone home and kicked the dog instead, but I forgot to think of it at the time and later on it slipped my memory.

"I do not remember much about the rest of the scuffle. There were a couple of objections made, in which the chair took an active part, then the smoke came out and the little birds began to sing, and the meeting adjourned. That is, I adjourned. I didn't know of anybody that is a better adjourner than I am when I feel that way.

"In future any foreigner who feels that he ought to manhandle his family and the liberal girl will have my unqualified indorsement. It is pretty discouraging to attempt to save the heroine and then have her enter to quick music with a hardwood chair and a look of malgrip hate and bust your crust with both of 'em.

"But if I ever save a heroine again it will be by mail and in a unanimous manner exclusively."

An Irish Priest Writes a Remarkable Book on America

AN Irish parish priest writes a book about America, and he does it so well that from cover to cover there is not an uninteresting page. The author gained his material right here on American soil, and the word pictures he gives are of surpassing interest.

After the dones of pessimism with which so many old world book writers on America afflict this patient land, such a volume as that given us by this Irish priest is as spirit-raising as a breeze from off the old Head of Kinsale.

There is no note of dolefulness in this man's story of America. He foretells no crack of doom, no crumbling to ruins of our national temple. On the contrary every line he writes is lighter than the one preceding and he who reads it will lay down the book feeling deeply thankful for the destiny that has made him an American.

It is a volume that should be among the text books in the schools. Its author is a new visitor to the sanctuary of letters, but now that he is within the gates his readers will not allow him to lapse into idleness.

What he has written about this land of ours may be judged by the review in C. O'Connell Galvin's article on Ireland to be presented in Sunday's AMERICAN.
